

To Whom It May Concern

Cork, 25th November 2023

I am writing this letter to recommend the work of builder Mr John Green, who carried out complete renovation and refurbishment of my house in Cork, with his team from Bathroom & Kitchen Renovations Cork.

Mr Green has done excellent work on my property, bringing the 44 year old house I purchased this year to pristine condition in just 2 months. My semidetached two-floor property badly needed complete reflooring, replumbing, painting, as well as kitchen refurbishment and refitting. Mr Green was able to deliver all of this, and his work has been impeccable. He supplied and installed everything from pipes, boiler and radiators to electric appliances, TV set and sockets – even fitting a new backdoor and two new windows in the kitchen, by creating an opening on the gable wall of the property. He conducted this work with great professional standing, leaving the house in flawless conditions, and personally dealing with all the innumerable issues that were inevitably rising during the renovation process on a daily basis – from drain emergencies to small delays with providers – always finding the best solution to every problem.

Mr Green is a highly reliable and experienced builder, who can be trusted to deliver what he promises. He is always committed to meet the client's requests and bring about their plans with the best possible results. Finally, he has a very friendly and kind personality, which helps reduce the stress that home renovation inevitably entails.

I thus highly recommend Mr Green's services, and I thank you in advance for anything You might do to support his projects.

Yours Sincerely,

Dr Tatsuma Padoan

Co-Director, SENSE Lab (Laboratory of Semiotics, Ethnosemiotics, Nonfictional Studies and Audiovisuality)
Lecturer in East Asian Religions, Office 2.21, O'Rahilly Building,
Study of Religions Department, University College Cork, Ireland.
Email: tatsuma.padoan@ucc.ie